Laytonsville: From Crossroads to Community

A Presentation by Jane Griffith Evans and Anne Burke Wolf from the Montgomery County Historical Society

MONTGOMERY HISTORY
MONTGOMERY COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY
MontgomeryHistory.org

Located in northeastern Montgomery County, Laytonsville evolved from a Native American trail to a market crossroads known as "Cracklintown", (after the cracklin bacon-cornbread) and to the vibrant community it is today.

Reflect back on 200 years with the stories of women and men who drew on their strengths and skills to build this town and community.

This local history presentation is filled with universal themes, and is based on the speakers' book by the same title. Jane Griffith Evans served as the first president of the Laytonsville Historical Center in 1996. Anne Burke Wolf has inventoried Historic Sites, and is a member of the Laytonsville Historical Society.
